

WHERE I EAT

Q: How often do you eat out?

A: I'd probably say three times a week.

Q: Which is your go-to place?

A: I go to Due Amici (67 E. Gay St.) a lot. It's an Italian restaurant. I also go to Roosters (multiple locations) a lot.

Q: What do you like about Roosters?

A: It's kind of like a staple. It's easy, quick and pretty consistent. I like the chicken wings, and then they have dumpster fries.

Q: I assume it's fries loaded up with a bunch of stuff?

A: It's like french fries, and it's (with) cheese and bacon and green peppers. It's high blood pressure waiting to happen, but I love it.

Q: How do you rate their chicken wings?

A: It's a 10 out of 10 for me.

Q: Where do you go for a special occasion?

A: We go to the Avenue (Steak Tavern, 1307 Grandview Ave.; 94 N. High St.) in Grandview.

Jeremy Taylor

Age: 27

Residence: Grandview Heights

Occupation: vice president of sales, DNO produce

Q: How is the steak?

A: It's fantastic; they do a great job. Most people go with the filet.

Q: Where do you go for a quick lunch?

A: Most of us and myself, we go to Block's Bagels (Bakery and Deli, 3012 E. Broad St., 6115 McNaughten Center). They're a traditional Jewish deli, so they have tons of bagels, but also salads and soups.

Q: What do you order there?

A: I get an everything bagel with butter and cream cheese, but I also get their Reuben sandwiches as well.

— Eric Lagatta
 elagatta@dispatch.com
 @EricLagatta